You can easily paint a beautiful Christmas tree with simple steps. Go to the instructions step by step. Forever green trees were used in services long before Christmas. Some hung spruce or spruce branches above the doors and windows to scare away witches and evil spirits. Celebrations with evergreen trees were often held during the winter solstice or around the shortest day of the year and the longest night. The solstice usually falls on December 21 or 22, and this ancient Sun Return Day coincides with today's Christmas festival on December 25. Currently, forever green trees or their artificial counterparts are introduced into the interior and decorated with ornaments and lights, the whole world. Some began to place Ugues in the tree of religious reformer Marcin Luther over 600 years ago. Scroll down to display this training and download the PDF file. Do you want to draw your own tree or Christmas tree? Follow this simple tutorial step by step. You will need paper and pencil, pen or marker. You can also use chalk, markers or pencils to paint the finished tree. Our example includes green, brown, yellow, red and blue. An illustration is attached to each operation described in this drawing textbook. Note that the new lines added to each illustration are highlighted in blue. Sketch the sketch first, because you can erase some lines while walking. If you liked this tutorial, get acquainted with the following drawing tutorials: Cartoon Tree, Palm Tree and Apple. Soli Step.To draw a Christmas tree, first draw two vertical lines. The horizontal line should be short and intersect at the bottom of the vertical line. Draw a small rectangle above the horizontal line. Draw an oval around the horizontal line. Draw a short line descending from each of the outer edges of the oval. Draw a small, curved line at the bottom of the rectangle. Connect the short lines coming from the oval to a curved line. Draw four horizontal lines that go through the vertical line. Draw an equilateral triangle—a triangle in which all sides are the same length—starting at the top of the vertical line. Draw another, larger triangle that intersects the first one. Draw a third triangle, even larger, that shortens the second one. Connect the two bottom points on each of the three triangles with a long, curved line. Delete the guide lines. Now you can clearly see the shape of your tree. Draw an elongated triangle on each side of the bottom of the tree. Connect the two triangles with a straight line. Connect the outer points of the two triangles with a curved line. Delete guide lines inside the tree. Draw a star on top of the tree. To do this, start by drawing an inverted triangle whose vertex touches the top of the tree. Then draw another triangle on it and cut out the first one. Draw curved borders at the top triangular part of the tree that connect the top point to each of the bottom points. Do the same by connecting the bottom row of each part of the tree with the dots below. Draw a curved line that cuts off the trunk of the tree. Delete auxiliary lines in the tree. Now you have a finished evergreen tree. To give shape to decorations or lights, they draw small circles all over the tree. If the circles cut out an existing line, delete the line in the circle.
