American Siamese Cufflinks Abby and Brittany Hensel Henselborn Abigail Loraine Brittany Lee Hensel (1990/03/07) 7 March 1990 (Agea 31) New Germany, Minnesota, Useducationbethel UniversityCupation TeachersFIFTH-Grade Teachers Elementary Sunnyside in New Brighton, Minnesota [1] Abigail Loraine Hensel and Brittany Hensel Lee (born March 7, 1990) are American Siamese twins. They are PARAGONS DISCHALIC twins, and are highly symmetrical for Siamese twins, giving the impression of having a unique body without marked variation from typical proportions. Everyone has a separate heart, stomach, spine, pair of lungs, and spinal cord. Each twin checks an arm and one leg. Like children, learning to crawl, walk, and beat the necessary cooperation hands. They can eat and write separately and simultaneously. Activities such as racing, swimming, hair brushing and driving a car require coordinated action. The progress of the twins was covered by the popular media, including the magazine Life and The Oprah Winfrey Show. They were interviewed on The Learning Channel in December 2006, discussing their daily life and projects for the future. They starred in its own series of realities, Abby and Brittany, on TLC in 2012. [2] [3] Background The twins were born in Carver County, Minnesota, Patty, a professional nurse, and Mike Hensel, a carpenter and architect of gardens. They have a younger brother and his sister. They were raised under New Germany, Minnesota, he attended Mayer Lutheran High School, and graduated from Bethel University in St. Paul in 2012. Physiology twins have a unique body with a separate head and neck, a case that is broader than the average, two arms and two legs. At birth, they had a rudimentary arm between the bases of their packages attached to a scapula on the back, being combined parts of ABBY left arm and Brittany's right arm. It has been removed, leaving the scapula. ABBY's head tilts sideways out of the outside of about 5 degrees to the right, while Brittany of princi sideways at about 15 degrees to the left, making it looks over short as well as seated. Brittany's leg is in fact almost two short inches than Abby and Brittany tends to stand and walk on tiptoe, which made her skin muscle significantly bigger than Abby. [4] The continued growth of the spine of ABBY was surgically stopped after Brittany prematurely stopped growing. [4] At the age of 12, they were subjected to surgery at the Gillette Children Specialties Healthcare to correct the scoliosis and to expand their chest cavity to avoid future difficulties with breathing. [5] Each twin manages a part of their joint body. The sense of touch of each is limited to her body half; This outside the sagittal plane median such that there is a small amount of overlap on the median line. Stomach pains, though, only the twin is felt on the opposite side. [4] They use the limbs in a cooperative way when both hands are needed or both legs. Coordinating their efforts, they are able to walk, run, swim and cycling normally. Together, they can type on a computer keyboard and drive a car. However, Abby, at 5th, FT 2a (1.57Å, m), is higher and longer than Brittany's leg, at 4th, FT 10A (1.47Å, m) [6] and their different heights led to Difficulty in balancing a Segway, as shown in their reality series of 2012. [4] Organ distribution The twins have individual organs at the top of their body, while most are in correspondence or below the Level of the Navel They are shared, except for the spinal cord. 2 heads 2 plugs fusion to the coccyx and connected to the chest output from of ribs. Surgery was employed to correct scoliosis. 2 Midolli Spinali completely separated 2 weapons (Originally 3, but the rudimentary central arm surgically removed, leaving the central scapula in place) 1 large chest box with 2 Sternums and traces of highly melted bridge ribs. Surgery was used to expand pleural cavities. 2 breasts of 2 hearts in a shared circulatory system (nutrition, breathing, drug assumed via both affects both) 4 lungs with media medial Moderately melted, not involving the lobe at the top right of Brittany; Three Pleuric Cavities 1 diaphragm with well-coordinated involuntary breathing, light centralized defect 2 stomach 2 gallbladder 1 liver, enlarged and elongated of the right-shaped Ya-shaped ya-shaped lobe, which experiments a slightly spastic double peristalsi at the Juncture 1 Chronic intestine (a two-point) 3 kidneys: 2 left. 1 right 1 bladder 1 Set of separate 2 semi-sacred reproductive organs, which converge distance 1 slightly wide separation of pelvis 2 legs on their birth, the parents of the twins have decided to Do not attempt surgical separation after listening to the doctors is unlikely that they would both have survived the operation. While the twins grew up and learned to walk and develop other abilities, their parents have confirmed their decision against separation, claiming that the quality of life for the two twins or the surviving twins that live separately would be less than their quality of life As joint people. [7] Adultoe The twins both exceeded driving license exams, both written and practical tests. Although the guide is a coordinated activity, they had to take the test twice, once for each twin. ABBY controls the devices on the right of the driver's seat; Brittany, those on the left. Together check the steering wheel. Both graduated from high school in 2008. They started College to the Bethel University of Arden Hills, Minnesota, in the field of education. They had considered to pursue different concentrations within that greater, but the volume of extra courses was prohibitive. [8] They graduated with Arts degree in 2012. [8] Some of the twin clothes are altered by a seamstress so as to have two separate necklines, in order to emphasize their individuality. They usually have separate meals, but sometimes they share a single meal for comfort. For tasks how to respond to e-mail, type and respond as one, anticipating the feelings of others with a small verbal communication between them. Their choice of a grammatical person is to use "I" when I agree, and to use their names when their answers differ. They intensely do not like to be fixed or photographed by strangers while they go on their private lives. [9] In interviews for the Discovery channel in 2006, then 16, you said they hoped to go out, get married and have children. They also claimed to hope that they provide some information about themselves, would be able to conduct quite typical social screw otherwise. [9] [10] The appearances of the media The twins appeared on the Parade of Oprah Winfrey on 8 April and 29 April 1996. During the same month, they were present on the cover of life under the caption "a body, two souls", and their daily lifestyle has been described in the article, "the summer of the Hensels". [11] Life followed with another story in September 1998. In 2002 he appeared in the union for life, a television documentary from advanced medical productions, distributed on the healthcare channel of the discovery [12] and a follow-up of 2003, combined with birth. [13] In 2003, an updated story of them at age 11 (filmed in 2001) was published in time and still in life. ABC TV has also made a documentary called "unified for life". [14] [15] A special United Kingdom television in 2005 as part of the extraordinary series people. [16] In 2006, Advanced Medical has done another documentary, united for life: ABBY & Brittany Turn 16, [17] which discusses their adolescence, school, social life and activities like getting driver licenses. [7] The twins acted in the Reality TV Show ABBY & Brittany which started in August 2012. [2] Abby and Brittany: united for life was demonstrated by the BBC United Kingdom in May 2013 and covers the period from their college very fine to start a part-time teaching job.
